HARRISBURG, Aug. 20.—PENNsylvania's plea for Federal Funds to aid its indigent unemployed was before the Reconstruction Corporation again today.

Losing no time in summarizing the work of the assembly's special session for the corporation directors, Gov. Gifford Pinchot wrote to Atlee Pomerene, board chairman, declaring that no longer can Pennsylvania be classed as an underserving state.

The Governor's request was for an immediate $10,000,000 loan to supplement the $12,000,000 to be raised in the state through the new one per cent general sales tax.

Recalling Pomerene's answer, when the state previously applied for the loan, that the legislature and other agencies had not done their "full duty," Governor Pinchot in his letter explained to the corporation chairman that direct relief is not the only assistance given to the people of the commonwealth.

"In addition to this cash provision," the executive wrote, "the general assembly passed a bill authorizing additional aid to be borrowed against uncollected delinquent taxes for unemployment relief, and initiated a constitutional amendment providing for repayment to the political subdivisions by the state of the money thus expended, to the extent of $25,000,000."

In view of these accomplishments of the general assembly," his letter continued, "I have strong hope that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be prepared to act upon the application of the state of Pennsylvania."

The body of the slain woman was found in a shallow grave near the farmhouse.

Mrs. Kumer said that she shot Mrs. Gunsallie when the latter was pursuing her with a razor. The quarrel began on Wednesday after the farm wife reproach Mrs. Kumer for throwing away some tomatoes.

After the slain woman's husband left the house yesterday to do some farm work, Mrs. Gunsallie said she intended to kill Mrs. Kumer, according to the latter.

"I have dug a grave for you and I'm going to bury you in it face down," Mrs. Gunsallie was quoted as saying.

Rockefeller, Jr.,

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Still clinging doggedly to a slender thread of life, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick awaited the arrival today of her brother, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

Her condition remained extremely perilous, but from her sickroom in the Drake hotel emanated the cheering news that slight improvement has occurred since Chicago's "first lady" emerged from a coma.

This was attributed wholly to Mrs. McCormick's remarkable will to keep herself alive. Her nurses said that the patient was finding it difficult to breathe, but was consciously controlling her respiration by forcing deep breaths into her lungs.

Cournoyer, 43, pastor of St. Louis church, and Miss Lavina Moran, middle-aged housekeeper, lay in New Haven hospital today following autopsies.

The body of the priest, one of the city's most popular Roman Catholic clergymen, was found yesterday in the garage in the rear of the rectory. Unofficially he was said to be a victim of automobile exhaust gas poisoning. A few minutes earlier Miss Moran was found by police in a spare bedroom of the parish home.

The woman, said by friends to have been ill for several weeks, had been dead about 24 hours. Father Cournoyer had been missing since Wednesday evening when he drove his two sisters to the station as they left on a vacation.

Keys to the car and garage were tightly clutched in his hand and police concluded the automobile motor had run for some time after the priest had died. The garage doors were closed.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 20.—Rushed to two local hotels here to check disorder and pandemonium as Legionnaires laid down a barrage of water, waste baskets and furniture, 75 policemen today took into custody more than a score of men, many of them Legionnaires, and four women.

All streets near the hotels were blocked off to pedestrians as an aerial attack of water and feathers from countless pillows descended upon the unwary bystander.

Many arrests followed as police attempted to check the fusillade of missiles hurled at windows and nearby buildings. Inter-room visiting was prohibited as police and hotel detectives continued to keep a watch on all corridors and elevators this morning.

In one hotel the palatial lobby was flooded by water from a fire hose which had been connected to the sixth floor. The flood cascaded down the corridors, keeping hotel officials busy shutting off fire hose valves.

ENROUTE TO COLUMBUS, O., WITH GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT, Aug. 20.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today carried his campaign for the presidency into Ohio long a Republican stronghold but this year claimed by the Democrats.

The Democratic presidential nominee will make his first political speech in public since he accepted the nomination at Chicago, this afternoon at Columbus.

While the subject of his address was being jealously guarded, Roosevelt was expected to deal at length with the policies and program enunciated by his rival, President Hoover, in accepting re-nomination by the Republican party. His advisers have indicated that he will offer a "constructive program" for dealing with the economic situation.

Because of reports brought to him that the Buckeye state is ready to flip out of the Republican column this year, the governor decided to make the Columbus speech a major campaign document, according to his advisers.

It will be his first stump speech of the campaign and he intends to make the most of it.

Soon the days will not be warm, then we won't have long to wait for the storm of adjectives from the wily candidate. Accosted by two masked bandits, Dr. Singleton refused to "stick 'em up" and lunged at one of the men. Apparently fearful his companion would be bested in the struggle, the second gunman fired at Singleton, the bullet passing through his right thigh and lodging in his left.

The gunmen then fled to their waiting car, with a third man at the wheel and escaped.

animals being packed in just comfortably. Must be that the fair season is under way.

Pa Newc feels gratified over Friday's message from Washington announcing that as little delay as possible will be experienced by the complete drafts for the city's new post-office, now resting on the drawing tables of capital architects. They're getting a final scrutiny, after which bids will be called for. All New Castle is pulling for an early start on the job!

Lost forgetfulness gets the best of us, Sycamore way downtown, between East street and Cochran way, is now a one-way thoroughfare. Traffic can only proceed west on it.

That conference here next week of the Shenango-Beaver Improvement association carries more significance than the average person imagines. A development plan for the Pymatung area, something we take a proud interest in, is to be discussed.

Pa Newc is informed that the bridge-building program now under way in Lawrence county is the most extensive to be launched here in years.

Just take this morning, for instance. If there weren't a few campers who shook in their cottages and tents, they must have smothered beneath an overload of blankets. But our guess is that some shivered even at that.

On a downtown desk there's one of those gloom-chaser signs reading: "Cheer up—The times we 'beef' about today will be calling 'the good old days' tomorrow." And isn't that the truth!

What a tale of old-time events your yellowed copies of The News, dated from 1882 to 1884, unfold. They are owned by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Ramsey, Glenmore boulevard, and they displayed them today.

Two luggage-packed cars, parked side by side on East Washington street, were the object of attention yesterday. One car bore a Wisconsin tag; the other a Wisconsin license.

With winter just around the corner, Pa Newc was somewhat surprised Friday evening when his attention was drawn to two gentlemen standing in front of the City Bank at the corner of Mill and East Washington streets about 9:30 o'clock, with topcoats and fall hats on engaging in a conversation. One would say they are rushing the season a bit.

PROSPERITY RETURNING

THERE are pessimists, malcontents, troublemakers, who believe that a panic exists or impends and who do not desire to think otherwise. Their poor distorted minds seem to derive some pleasure out of those visions of ruin and suffering, although it is difficult to see in what way they personally will benefit ever though hard times discredit those of other political and social beliefs.

Fortunately for the future prosperity and happiness of the nation the great body of Americans are optimistic economically, politically and socially. They constantly see before them better times, better things. That is the mood in which one now finds them.

The United States is renewing its natural progress toward greater prosperity, greater production, greater comfort and better living conditions for the average man. The signs of vigor and confidence are as unmistakable as the signs of spring. The winter of discontent is over.

It is not surprising to see the country turning away from its recent troubles and rapidly regaining its habitual stride of prosperity.

All other public questions are subordinate to the supreme question of keeping the American people profitably employed. If the United States is busy and productive, no obstacle is too great for it to remove or surmount.

CONCERNING HOLIDAYS

Some day somebody somewhere will be moved to utter a warning against the unlicensed multiplication of legal holidays. The more holidays we get, the less inclined people are to take them seriously. A few enthusiastically observed would be better for the object intended than many indifferently celebrated or neglected altogether.

New Years long ago lost its significance for most people. Even the public schools usually do not close for Lincoln's birthday or for Columbus day. Comparatively few observe Thanksgiving as a religious festival. Even Memorial day has become more a touring and outing occasion than one for remembering those who saved the Union.

If legal holidays are to be merely occasions for escaping work they might as well be distributed evenly through the year. It would simplify matters, for instance, to have a specified day of every month made a legal holiday, taking its name in case from some historic anniversary occurring within the month.

The tendency, of course, is always to multiply, never to decrease, the number of holidays. We may ignore a holiday, but we never legislate it out of existence; and it is small honor to a hero or an historic event for the public generally either to neglect the holiday set aside in commemoration or to turn the celebration into channels foreign to its original purpose.

Who will be first seriously to suggest a revision of holiday schedules in the interests of a harassed and confused mankind.

WE'LL KEEP ON WONDERING

Why is it that women are so neat and men so sloppy? Barring only that bisection of the female clan which insists on wearing a boudoir cap to the grocery store, women never appear outside their own doors on one half of the sloughy, shiftless, good-for-nothing array that a lot of good citizens of the other sex are continually seen in. Why is it?

Perhaps there is no particular virtue in being slicked up all the time, and certainly there is nothing so offensive to the hearty person of masculine gender as the well-oiled young man whose handkerchief protrudes from his coat sleeve, whose vest buttons look as if they had been massaged and manicured an hour before, and who can wear patent leather shoes six months without getting a lot of nicks in them.

But just take the average pillar of the community. Think about his collar for a minute. If he wears one of the torturous stiff white ones, it will be smeared or else wilted before noon. The soft collar fare little better, and the fellow who wears blue shirt, with collar attached, just looks as if he is on the way to the stable, nor matter what part of town you meet him in.

This is all said in spirit of humility. We realize that one man is at bottom as bad as another, and if one looks a little more perk than his neighbor, it is his wife who really deserves the credit. It is nothing that can be reformed, we suppose, and perhaps the women glory in their superiority, and wouldn't have the folk all spick and span even if they could.

But a person can't help wondering sometimes—why is it that a woman looks so neat, and her husband so doggone sloppy?

Cutting the Lawn
Looking Domesticated
Clipping the Edges

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The grass needs cutting. It nearly always does. It grows even while you are cutting it, and the moment you turn your back to put the lawn mower away it leaps up and needs to be done all over again. But it does need cutting. So you get the mower out and go to work. Grooming a little because it's work, and perhaps because there's nothing, second to pushing a baby carriage along the street, that looks quite as domesticated as pushing a lawn mower. (And few men care particularly about LOOKING domesticated.)

But you get the lawn mower out of the basement and fit the grass catcher to it and make a long, devastating cut across the grass. Not so bad. There's something not unpleasant about destroying things. Might as well admit it. And cutting the grass is a form of destruction, to be sure, and done in the name of neatness and good gardening, but it reminds you of the days when you went down the street knocking flowers off with a stick. It was wicked, but it was fascinating devilry.

There's technique to cutting the grass, too. You don't want to leave long, uncut lines of grass that stand up like stubble patches on your face after a careless shave. You have to watch out for those things. And there's quite a knack in cutting at the edges; you lift one side of the mower and roll it along on one wheel.

But the worst part comes last. After the mowing part is finished, then you get down on your hands and knees and clip the edges by hand. And that's no fun. The sun shines on the back of your neck, you get a blister on your forefinger, you get an ache in your back. You decide that home exercise is vastly overrated, and you think of 50 things you'd prefer to clipping the edges of the lawn.

After it's all finished it looks very nice indeed, but you can't forget that edge-clipping part. Mowing the lawn is like day dreaming, smooth and easy and delightful. Cutting those edges is like setting to work to make those day dreams come true. Only improvement I can think of is to clip the edges before you do the mowing, and thus have the dessert last instead of first. That might work.

BEING IN CHECK.

There are times when you wish you were not held down by the demands of society and the rights of friends and family.

You'd like to do just as you please for a while and that irrespective of whom it might offend.

You don't want to do unlawful things but want to be yourself. Free to act without thought of harmful consequences, what a comfort.

You feel always under restraint, hence never natural. And there are thousands who feel just as you do.

Many would seek a different freedom than you wish, of course. Their freedom would be to do evil.

So isn't it a good thing most of us live under a check rein?

If the majority conducted themselves without thought of others or the consequences entailed, this would be a far more miserable world in which to live.

The right of others would be trampled, wouldn't they? You have no wrong desires, might not act unfairly.

But complete liberty would not bring you real satisfaction.

You'd be just like other humans and carry it too far.

In fact so far that you would later have many regrets.

It's well you're held down.

PASSING GREETINGS

As Bill and I go riding 'round the roads that line the Thumb

We like to wave a friendly hand to all who go or come;

To farmers busy in their fields, the women in the yards,

We toss a greeting blithe and gay to give them our regards.

And always there are wave backs at us in much the self-same way.

And some so solemn at their tasks, immovable they stay.

For miles and miles in Michigan we roam the country o'er,

And every farmhouse seems to have a mother near the door.

With lilyhops and dahlias bright the little gardens glow.

And always there are marigolds to make a pretty show.

But old men sitting in the sun and women worn and gray

Seem glad to get a friendly wave from those who pass their way.

"And what's the odds," says Bill to me, "if churlish men we spy,

Who will not wave a hand to us as we go rushing by?"

We cannot guess the cares they face, nor all their doubts and fears.

The eyes that seem so dull to us may still be dim with fears.

We'll wave to all along the road unto the journey's end.

That someone very lonely there may know he has a friend.

Mussolini's Eulogy Of War Taken Lightly By Americans

Italian Premier Is Reminded Of Cost Of Armed Conflict And History Of Those Who Have Endeavored To Rule World By Force Of Arms

Mussolini is declared unimpressive when he says: "Only war carries all human energies to the height of tension and gives the seal of nobility to peoples that have the courage to confront it." The Italian Premier is accused of appealing to the nationalism of the Italian people by magnifying the glory of ancient Rome and its military position. His utterances are examined in the light of the known cost of war and the present hope of the world for peace.

"He must have his little joke," thinks the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, with the suggestion that he "can always be counted upon to say precisely the reverse of what American readers believe—it is his charm." Conceding, however, that "he redeemed Italy from the shame of a dissolving government," the editorial remarks that "he would not be human if he were not struck by the parallel between his own career and that of Julius Caesar." The Milwaukee paper concludes with the warning "The Americans who smile tolerantly at Signor Mussolini's strictures upon liberty ought to inventory the liberties whose permanence they take for granted. They may find that their indifference has forfeited what he would deny them by fiat."

"He has great sport watching his mirror as he makes warlike faces," says the DANBURY EVENING NEWS, refusing to believe that "he wants to see his Italy at war with anybody." The Evening News concludes: "Mussolini depreciates pacifism which is of the 'turn the other cheek' variety. He fears that such racism means softness, decadence. But there is a world of difference between a sane readiness to fight to defend one's rights and an insistence upon the 'glories' of warfare for the mere sake of the excitement of the battlefield. We refuse to believe that Mussolini is as bloodthirsty and as eager for war as he asserts. He likes to horrify people, dearly loves to hear the world say, 'Isn't he terrible!' The very spirit of conquering, irresistible Rome!"

"He is indulging in the kind of imperialistic claptrap which brought about the World War and almost buried civilization beneath the ruins of Europe," remarks the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, with the estimate of his "real" efforts to a domestic publication: "If Duce is not at his best in Porcillo d'Italia. Answer to Previous Puzzle

His Tax Problem Is Growing Daily

A certain pastor made an appeal for contribution to a worthy charity, and received a letter in reply from one of his flock, reading as follows:

Reverend Sir: I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible for me to send you a check. My present financial condition is due to the effect of federal laws, corporation laws, state laws, county laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, and outlaws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public. Through these laws I have been held down, held up, walked upon, sat upon, flattened and squeezed until I do not know where I am, what I am, and why I am.

These laws compel me to pay a merchant's tax, capital stock tax, excess tax, income tax, real estate tax, property tax, light tax, heat tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, syntax, carpet tax and now a sales tax.

In addition to these taxes I am requested and required to contribute to every society and organization that the minds of men can organize. The government has so governed my business that I do not know who owns it. I am suspected, expected, disrespected, examined, re-examined, informed, required, commanded and compelled, until all I know is that I am supposed to provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of all the human race.

And because I refuse to donate to go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away. I am cursed and discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to and lied about, held up, held down, robbed until I am nearly ruined. So the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what the deuce is coming next.

Hungarian Baptists Plan For Convention

Twenty Fifth Annual Convention Will Be Held In Church On East Reynolds Street

Rev. S. Revak, pastor of the local Hungarian Baptist church, 102 1/2 East Reynolds street, will be the welcoming minister when the twenty-fifth annual convention of the members of the Hungarian Baptist churches in the United States convenes in this city August 23, continuing until August 28.

The Emmanuel Baptist church, corner Reynolds and Jefferson streets, has been secured by the congregation for the meeting place, through the kindness of the members of that church, as the Hungarian edifice is too small to accommodate the crowd which will attend.

There will be delegates from all the principal cities of the country and it is expected that the number will reach over two hundred.

This convention will discuss matters relating to the church problems, as related to the Magyar people and the old folks home, which the Hungarians have established in Michigan.

During the convention evangelistic services will be held each evening, conducted by the visiting ministers.

Sunday, August 28, the morning service will be in charge of Prof. Edwin L. Kautz, South Norwalk, Conn., who will conduct it in English in the Emmanuel Baptist church, while the services in the Hungarian church will be in charge of Rev. J. S. Fassekas. The evening services that day will close the convention.

Not only the members of the Baptist churches, but the entire community will be welcome at these meetings.

Monday evening the prayer for revival service will be held in the First Presbyterian church at 7:45, with Dr. Harry Barr, pastor of the First Methodist church of Franklin, as the speaker.

A feature of Monday evening services will be the reunion of the "Billy Sunday converts" or any who were converted through personal workers of that campaign 22 years ago. It is the plan that all these persons get together Monday evening and plan for a corn roast sometime in the near future, before the city-wide campaign opens.

Merchants Give Sacks For Garments

Cooperation Of All Stores And Citizens Asked In Movement.

During the past week, a number of local merchants have donated large sacks to the local committee, headed by Mrs. S. DeGraff Pearson, which will be made into clothing by groups of women organized in the various school districts of the city and adjoining territory.

A great number, however, are needed to carry on this work, and any merchant who can cooperate, or any individual, is asked to call 5084, and the sacks will be called for. They can also be left at the offices of the Red Cross and Associated Charities, above the Rescue Mission.

Those who have donated sacks to the committee during the past few days are: Lawrence Bottling Co., 50; Axe and Brennenman, 24; Ever Ready Inn, 24; John Boyd, 14; V. O. Potter, 12; W. L. Cosel, 11; and T. W. McCullough, 10.

Many who do not have a supply on hand at the present time, have promised to save their sacks for contribution to this most worthy effort.

The new horses will provide a mount for every man at these drill sessions.

Mounts are now available to civilian riders and a number have been taking advantage of the opportunity to ride during the past week.

Wonderful Zinnias Presented To News

Ellwood City Lady Gives Some Extra Large Flowers Of That Type

One of the most unusual exhibits of zinnias seen about this section in some time is that presented in a bouquet to The News by Mrs. J. L. Braden of Ellwood City, R. D. No. 1. The flowers of this bouquet are of an unusually large type as well as being of many different colors. One of the number in the bouquet was measured and found to be eighteen inches in circumference. They are attracting considerable attention.

IRREGULAR TONE FOR PAST WEEK

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Finan-

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The stock market today wound up an irregular week with a steadier performance.

Strength in rail shares, especially the low-priced issues, and the bond market offset the depressing influence of a fresh decline in wheat and brought a rally in the final dealings after a reactionary first hour.

Gains were generally small, however, and trading was at a slow pace. There were a few soft spots, notably Auburn and Du Pont.

Council Passes On 1930 Exonerations List Last Night

Carry Out Request Of Tax Collector To Go Over List Name By Name

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 20.—A final clean-up of the tax exoneration muddle that has been going on for some time in Ellwood City, is more nearer its goal as a result of an action by the borough council at a special meeting last night in the city hall.

Clark Dick, passed on the 1930 exoneration list after a careful investigation. The tax collector is still charged with a sum of $619.10 which council refused to exonerate. He will be given an extension of time to collect this.

In the matter of the 1931 list council had proceeded to carry out the request of Tax Collector T. A. E. McConahy who was advised by his attorney John P. Lockhart. When council had attempted to pass on the 1931 list name by name, which numbered about 5000 names, they received a further suggestion which was agreeable to both sides. The finance committee was granted an extension of time to prepare three lists at a future meeting: (1) a list to be exonerated; (2) a list refused exoneration; (3) a list for the further consideration of the finance committee.

Daring Scottish Airman Tells Of Details As He Crossed Atlantic Ocean

Captain James A. Mollison, First Flier To Solo Atlantic East To West

Learned Considerable And Hopes To Make Better
Time In Flight
Back To Ireland

Captain James A. Mollison, the first man to complete a successful east to west solo flight across the Atlantic, Friday afternoon described to International News Service the difficulties he encountered in attempting to fly direct from Ireland to New York. The story was told over the telephone from Pennfield or Pennfield Ridge, New Brunswick, where Captain Mollison landed early Friday afternoon.

By CAPT. JAMES A. MOLLISON
As told to Newton C. Parke, International News Service foreign editor for over long distance telephone. Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.

PENNFIELD RIDGE, N. B., Aug. 20.—If I had a little more gasoline left, I feel sure I would have hit New York on the nose. But I went clear off the mark and had to come down, very, very tired, but glad that I have come this far safely.

I got away from Portmarnock beach, near Dublin, yesterday morning, convinced I should be able to reach New York without a stop as the first leg of my round-trip flight. During the daylight hours, I flew close to the surface of the water. On the first part of the flight, the weather was favorable from every point of view.

But off the American coast, I encountered fog and mist and had to rise 6,000 feet to escape it.

Fog Is Thick.
It was this fog which tired me out. It was hard work battling through a mist so blinding that I could not see.

I cannot even be certain where I made my first land-fall, but according to my computations, I believe it was about 20 miles north of Harbor Grace, Newfoundland.

At that stage of the flight, I thought surely I could make New York Friday.

I struck a course that I believed was taking me straight down the Newfoundland coast, but the fog stayed with me and I went clear off the course.

Over Halifax.
The next thing I knew I was over Halifax, Nova Scotia. I had not planned to fly there and I circled the city to make sure of my whereabouts. Then once again I set a course that I thought would take me southward to New York.

Through fog and mist I flew until at last I became so tired I thought I could continue on no longer. So I turned back to look for a suitable landing place and the next thing I knew I was over St. John, New Brunswick.

Lands In Field.
The coast nearby was too rocky for a safe landing. I was about done in, and my gasoline supply was becoming depleted. I had to give up all hope of reaching New York Friday so I turned back inland to look for a place to come down.

It took an hour to find one. At last I spotted an open field at Pennfield Ridge, and I brought the plane down in an easy landing right near the home of my present host, Mr. Raymond Hawkins.

Stiff and Tired.
I was stiff and tired when I climbed out of the machine, but happy to be alive and pleased to find that my ship was all right. There was still some gasoline in the tank. I am sure that if I had a few gallons more I would have kept myself awake and continued on to New York. But I wasted so much flying in the fog that I realized it was hopeless and decided to do the wise thing.

So far as I am concerned, I am tired, and like everyone else almost totally deaf after sitting behind a roaring engine for 30 hours.

(Editor's note: Captain Mollison had so much difficulty hearing the questions of International News Service that the long-distance operator at St. John repeated every one for his benefit.)

Thinks Of Wife.
I would be happy if you would send a message to my wife. (Mrs. Mollison is the former Amy Johnson, famous British aviatrix.)

Tell her I am glad I have justified her confidence in me, and that I shall be in New York Saturday.

In the meantime, I need a rest. I plan to go in to St. John this afternoon and put up for the night at the Admiral Beatty hotel. I shall leave my plane up there. I should be at Roosevelt field sometime early Saturday afternoon.

Will Take Rest.
The way I feel now, I think I shall take a really good rest before I fly back to Ireland. I shall certainly start in a week's time, but at present I feel a little too tired to want to rush the whole thing within four days.

When I do go back, it will be in my little plane and I'm sure it will be easier than the westward journey.

Wife Is Happy.
LONDON, Aug. 20.—"I knew he'd do it," cried the former Amy Johnson when International News Service delivered a message from her husband, Captain James A. Mollison. "The last few hours of waiting were rather terrible," she said, "but I think the worst is now over."

Mrs. Mollison made immediate attempts to reach her husband over the trans-Atlantic telephone.

BOARD TO MEET

Your Luck for Today

To find a coin in a horse track is one of the sure signs that good fortune will attend you.

A necklace of lapis lazuli worn on Saturday will insure the fidelity of your lover.

Wear flax in your shoe as a preventative against poverty.

There will be as many snows next winter as there are rains in August.

If you stub your toes while going up the church steps you must turn back and start over. Otherwise you will have bad luck for a year.

CENTER CHURCH

The young people of Mrs. Robert Gillfillan and J. M. Houk's classes of the Bible school are having a winter roast at the J. M. Houk residence on the evening of August 18. A jolly good time is anticipated.

On August 25 there will be a picnic held at the church by the members of the children's department of the Bible school. The ladies of the congregation are invited to gather in the forenoon to quilt. This has been pieced during the summer by the children of this division and will be sent to a mission station. Mrs. C. G. Johnston is the superintendent of the children, and in the afternoon they will give an impromptu program.

Mrs. J. B. Gibson celebrated her birthday anniversary on August 17. On this occasion the Energy union of the W. C. T. U. went to her home. At one o'clock they gathered around a table which was beautiful with a color scheme of yellow and white. After partaking of a beautiful dinner the program was carried out with Mrs. Homer Shaffer leading. The September meeting will be held at Mrs. William Houk's. Mrs. Gibson was assisted by Mrs. Plummer Gibson of New Castle. Mrs. Gibson received many congratulations and gifts.

Dodgers Take Second Place

Brooklyn Dodgers Keep Climbing And Are Dangerously Close To Top Of Heap

GIANTS HUMBLE PIRATES 10 TO 4

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—There never has been a season like this one for slumps and spurts in the big league races.

We have the once proud Pirates losing sixteen of their last eighteen starts; Brooklyn copping 22 out of 23, passing the Pirates and going into second place in the National League scramble yesterday; the Yankees winning eleven of their last twelve games; the White Sox losing ten straight; and the Giants winning five straight in a last desperate bid for the National League flag.

Max Carey, Brooklyn manager, is manipulating his pitchers in highly effective fashion. He sent "Moving Van" Mungo, a green rookie, against Cincinnati yesterday and the youngster blanked the Reds 6 to 0. This put the Dodgers only two games behind the league-leading Cubs, who lost a 6 to 5 decision to the Braves, the latter taking kindly to the offerings of Pat Malone.

Yankees Halted.
Big Chief Elton Hoesgett was bad medicine for the Yankees, snapping their winning streak of ten games by taking a 4 to 3 decision over Charley Ruffing. Lazzeri's single in the ninth won the nightcap for New York, 4 to 3. Babe Ruth, making a gallant try to overtake Jimmy Fox in the home run derby, smacked his 35th circuit clout.

The Athletics strengthened their hold on second place and gained a full game on the Yanks by two-timing Cleveland, 9 to 7 and 3 to 2. Al Simmons hit "five for five" in the opener while Tony Freitas shaded Clint Brown in a pitching duel in the nightcap.

The pitching of Firpo Marberry and Bill McAfee was too much for the disorganized White Sox, who bowed to Washington twice, 4 to 3 and 3 to 1.

Pirates Trounced.
The Giants knocked Heinie Meine out of the box in the first inning and trounced Pittsburgh, 10 to 4, behind Carl Hubbell's pitching.

A single by Jake Flowers in the eleventh gave the Cardinals a 5 to 4 win over the Phillies.

W. S. Merchants Trim Williams

West Side Merchants mullball team topped the fast Williams in a mullball game at Clifton Flats field. The winning run was scored in the final of the seventh after one was out. F. Kruger, Kulich and Walzer hit the ball hard. Erwin and Kruger did the pitching allowing the Williams but five hits.

Local Power Company Serves Rural District

Exceed National Average In Number Of Farmers Being Served With Power

BUILD 140 MILES OF LINE PER YEAR

While a recent nationwide survey shows that 11.1 per cent of all American farms are now served by electric power and light companies, the percentage in the local district is far greater than this. Louis B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power Company revealed today.

The Pennsylvania Power Company became interested in rural electrification as early as 1920. Mr. Round pointed out, and while they have been particularly active since the handing down of General Order No. 28 by the Public Service Commission, they had been developing the district served by them prior to that time.

The principle of General Order No. 28 was to the effect that electric power companies could develop rural areas.

"In the last five years, since the order became effective, the Pennsylvania Power Company has built 703 miles of rural lines, bringing service to 6,300 rural customers, of which number, 2,200 are farmers," Mr. Round stated.

Ratio Higher.

"In the area served by our company, there are approximately 8,000 farmers of which 28 per cent, or 2,220 were served by electricity as of August 1, 1932. This shows a considerably higher ratio as compared with the 11.1 per cent for the country as a whole.

"In other words, out of every three and a half farms in our local district is served with electric service as compared with one out of every nine for the nation as a whole, and this at a reasonable rate."

Mr. Round stated that electric service is available to practically every farmer residing in the area served by the Pennsylvania Power Company.

In spite of the decrease in general business during the past three years, the Pennsylvania Power Company has been extending their rural lines at the rate of 140 miles per year, until they now bring electricity to the door of almost every farmer living within the area served by them, in addition to providing current to a number of small towns, which had not been served formerly.

Observations In 7th Ward

Few motorists driving over the New Castle-Wampum highway have failed to notice the mass of garden plots being cultivated in the lowlands across the Pennsy right-of-way, out of the ward proper. Well, the gardeners know that, but they're just as anxious, too, to have everyone know that vegetables and other crops they're raising will give other city gardens a fast chase for records. The seventh ward has already been convinced of the fertility of the lowland soil—they've seen some of the cucumbers!

Dogs are man's friends any place, but in the seventh ward—and a stranger could tell you—they seem to prefer bulldogs for pets. You see them every place, and the dogs are fine looking ones at that. Among those who own one are John McMillen, John Driggs, W. W. Waide, M. S. Anderson, F. C. Leppy, Miles Shriver, Bob Tackitt, the Stritzingers and others.

Ward school children are eyeing September 7 these days. At least it seems that way from the reports one hears of vaccinations, tonsil operations and such.

Mothers! Will you help in this movement to provide wearable school clothing for needy tots of the district? You can pledge your services beginning Monday.

The New Castle News
Dear Mr. Rentz:

In Noah Webster's "Big Book" you will find many, many words meaning this, that and the other; but of all those words in Noah's book there is a single one that can cause more quickening of the pulse in anticipation of the joys we know are in store for us than the word "REUNION."

Reunion—the Day of Days of all the year—when comrades, friends and loved ones meet to renew the ties that bind!

I sometimes wonder if we have a full understanding and a real appreciation of the manifold benefits derived from these gatherings we call "Reunions." Show me a community whose citizens are strong for reunions and I'll show you a community that has a better understanding of what constitutes the real Christian spirit than all the creeds, codes, laws or "isms" handed down for the government of men.

While there are many different kinds of reunions, each with its appeal to the individual clan, creed, or nationality concerned, there is but one reunion that knows no clan, no creed, color or nationality, but has such a direct appeal to our hearts and our fondest memories that none other can compare—and that is the reunion that brings together the boys and girls of school days.

School days—school days—truly the golden days of life! How we love to recall those sweet memories of long ago! If you question this, just slip around sometime and sit on the side lines when the boys and girls of Reynoldstown, Mullettown, or Slabtown get together for their annual feast. If there is not aroused in you a feeling of envy and longing to be one of the joyous throng, then there is no longer any sentiment in your soul. Just why this sentiment of School Day Reunion which was born among the former kids that inhabited "Reynoldstown" has spread its heaven only to the kids of Mullettown, Slabtown and Mahoningtown, I just don't understand. Can it be that there is more sentiment among the kids who lived East, South and West of the "Diamond" than exists among those who played ball on "Shaw's Hill" or went swimmin' at Pearson's Dam or "Sun-Fish Rock"?

I can't believe it possible that sentiment no longer has a place in the hearts and memories of the boys and girls of old "Martin Gantz." No school in our city county or state—yes, I'll go farther and take in the whole country—has a better right to feel any prouder of the boys and girls who have passed through her portals than old Martin Gantz.

Memories—memories—do they not recall those wonderful days of long ago? The brightest spot in old Martin Gantz to me was in old No. 8. Will ANY of the pupils who came under the guidance of that dearest, sweetest, and most lovable character who ever taught school forget "Mother Moffatt"? No! Not while memory lasts! What a gang that was! Just to mention a few of the boys and girls I knew, loved, fought, and played "hook" with—you can supply your own. Remember "Shag" Wallace and his old Hi-wheel bicycle? Remember the day you went over its handle bars, May or Mayne? Remember "Kid" Tyler and his orchard bandits? Smiling Lou Tyler and "Derby" Stewart? Happy Jack Henry, Mil-Bee and Al "Wink" McFarland and Bill Cochran; the Rhodes boys—and how they could play ball; Sam and Bert Cosel and old "Maxey Cobb"; the Jones kids—John, Ed and Bill; "Red" Cooper; Dick McGuffin; the Baldwin, Sankey and Patterson boys up on the hill. Just a few of the boys, but we must not forget the girls. Say—OUR GIRLS didn't need lip-stick, rouge, talcum or "knee" lengths to display their beauty or charms. Do you remember black-eyed, raven-haired Mary McKnight, tall and queenly Sally Leslie, rollicking, care-free Maude Garvin, demure Deed Gillespie; and there was Nettie Cosel, Ella Haught, Gert Wilson, the Durbin and Boyles girls, Minnie Wallace and Belle Peebles—just a few I recall; you can recall many more.

The boys and girls of old Martin Gantz have traveled far and wide; some didn't get any farther than "Slabtown" and I myself stopped at Mahoningtown; but what a Reunion we could have if we made up our minds to get busy. What a "kick" we would get out of it, to say once more "Hello, Charlie Jack, and Bill!" Well—why not?

With such sentimentalists as Sara Dana Falls, C. J. B. Mayne, Dave Wiles, M. J. Wallace, the Urmsen boys, Bill "Toby" Dick Dana, and a host of others too many to name, we could start a move for a Reunion that would make all wonder WHY it was not the first. Better yet, let busy Martin Gantz will soon be but a memory. Give G. Ligo and the present school board another year or two and what still remains of this old pile of brick and stone will have disappeared—and it will be but a memory. Has sentiment died in the 1st and 2nd Wards? Do "Memories" still stir your soul? You answer. Very truly yours,

J. HERB McILVENNY,
512 West Clayton street.
